ABSTRACT

Methods of inducing, promoting, and/or enhancing one or more physiological responses associated with the treatment and/or prevention of inflammatory arthritides and/or other inflammation-related conditions in mammals and/or mammalian tissues including delivery of an effective amount of at least one tissue factor antagonist, at least one tissue factor inhibitor, or a combination thereof to a mammal and/or mammalian tissue under conditions such that such a physiological response is induced, promoted, and/or enhanced.